

Business News – Week of September 25, 2017

Successful business leaders and CEOs read voraciously to stay up-to-date with their industries and business trends.

Warren Buffett, one of the richest men in the world and a successful CEO, estimates that he spends 80% of his time reading. Buffett has said that every morning he reads the Wall Street Journal, the Financial Times, the New York Times, USA Today, the Omaha World-Herald, and the American Banker.

Bill Gates reads the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, and the Economist cover to cover.

On that note, Knowledge Matters, makers of Virtual Business, has compiled this list of some of the most important business stories of the week.

How India, The Global Music Industry's Sleeping Giant, Is Finally Waking Up – Forbes

Why Futurist Ray Kurzweil Isn't Worried About Technology Stealing Your Job – Fortune

Ginni Rometty on the End of Programming – Businessweek

One Surprise Standout for Uber: Food Delivery – NY Times

The Decline of Toys R Us . . . What Happened? – Company Man (YouTube video)